ABOUT NEW SOUTH WALES.

A TRIP OVERLAND ACROSS ENGLAND'S AUSTRALIAN DEPENDENCY.

ITS GEOGRAPHIC, NATIONAL AND COMMERCIAL FEATURES—A DISTRICT THAT FORMS A PERFECT EPITOME OF CLIMATES, FROM SNOWY MOUNTAINS TO TORRID, SCORCHING PLAINS—THE COUNTRY'S FAIR PROSPECTS.

OVERLAND MELBOURNE TO SIDNEY.—Starting from Melbourne at 6:10A. M. we pass through the undulating country surrounding Moonee Ponds. There is not much to be said about the scenery on the route, although some pretty landscapes do occasionally present themselves.

Here and there we see large droves of cattle and thousands of sheep, but nothing of beauty in nature. The outlook is very monotonous until Wallen-Wallan is reached, where we enter on a stretch of hills and wooded country, and skirt the Tallarook Ranges. At Euroa we near the Strathbogie Ranges and the scenes of the Kelly outrages attract universal attention. The country continues flat for several miles but is far better for farming purposes than that we passed through at the commencement of our journey. The Glenrowan Ranges next appear and a hill named "Morgan's Look-out" on the left. At Glenrowan Station we can plainly see the remains of the hotel where the Kelly gang were destroyed and this spot will long remain an object of interest to the traveler. If you happen to be in a full railway carriage you will hear stories of the outrages and depredations and daring robberies of the gang repeated by some knowing one to groups of attentive listeners.

At Wodonga there is a break in the journey. Taking a coach we drive three miles through a swampy country and cross the river Murray to Albury where a train is in waiting at the great Southern Railway of New South wales. This line has been opened but a few days and now bids fair to work a change in the whole of the two colonies by uniting the two largest metropolies in Australia. It will make the people of the two colonies much better acquainted with each other and, in spite of sectional influence and petty jealousies, it will bring the people of New South Wales and Victoria more together as brothers.

After dining at Albury we engage a berth in the sleeping-car for an extra fee of 10s. ($2.50). These cars contain twenty beds which are made to fold away in the daytime after the manner of sleeping-cars on our lines in the United States, but do not compare favorably for either comfort or convenience with our cars. The rest of the journey we do in the night, arriving at Sydney at 8:30, A. M.

At one time New South Wales was Australia. By the separation of Tasmania, South Australia, Victoria and Queensland the colony has been reduced to a territory of 323,437 square miles, equal to the area, however, of Great Britain, Ireland and France combined. The coast line of New South Wales is about 800 miles. The four great rivers are the Murray, 1,120 miles long; the Murrumbidgee, 1,350 miles; the Lachlan, 700 miles; and the Darling, 1,160 miles; the last three named flowing into the Murray, which river carries to the sea the drainage of over 270,000 square miles of territory. With the exception of Snowy River and Lake George, all the waters of New South Wales flow into the Pacific, or, gathering on the west side of the ranges, fall into the Murray, eventually reaching the ocean through South Australia on the western side of the continent.

The mountains and coast ranges, although they extend for a great distance, present no remarkable features.

The extensive area of New South Wales and the variety of its elevations make it obvious that nearly every kind of climate is to be met with in the colony. In one district we find "snowy" mountains, and in another arid deserts. Fortunately the latter are in the remotest interior. The heat in Summer is tempered along the coast by the sea breeze, but in the interior and also the northern portion of the colony the hottest months are something to be dreaded. Fruits of all kinds thrive in New South Wales much better than in Victoria. Some of the finest fruit I have eaten since I left home I have found here the past week. The salubrity of the climate of the colony of New South Wales and the easy access of the people to changes from the intense heat to the mountains where "cool breezes blow" have been attested by so many writers that it is unnecessary for me to dwell upon it.

The anticipations of the founder of the colony seemed incredible to those who were with him to take part in establishing civilization in one of the remotest corners of the globe. As they contrasted the wild, though lovely, scenes of the new land with the cultivated plains and ample cities of their nativity, they may be pardoned if they thought that, while a waste so strange and distant was well chosen for the doom of exile, it was most unlikely ever to take a place in the sisterhood of nations. But we, privileged with the span of three generations to behold, from the spot on which the first Governor and his fellow-voyagers landed, an extensive and growing metropolis—the city of Sidney—every view adorned with evidence of taste, order and refinement, and with an instinctive knowledge of the promise of a great future, can echo with confidence the predictions of the founder of New South Wales with him we can exclaim:

"How grand is the prospect which lies before the youthful nation! Honour for any state would it be to occupy the first position both in regard to time and influence in a country so vast, so beautiful, so fertile, so blest in climate, so rich in all those bounties which nature can confer; enough of merit for any nation would it be to throw open so extensive and so highly favoured a country to the occupation of mankind—to explore its remote regions, to discover its rivers and inland waters, to subdue its forests, to render accessible its mountains, to make pathways through its deserts; enough of reward would it be to have the privilege of enjoying those blessings and treasures which must spring from the possession and occupation of such a country—its fertile plains tempting only the slightest labours of the husbandman to produce in abundance the fairest and richest fruits; its interminable pastures, the future home of flocks and herds innumerable; its mineral wealth, already known to be so great as to promise that it may yet rival those treasures which fiction loves to describe; enough, I say, would it be to enjoy those honors and those advantages, but others, not less advantageous, but perhaps more honourable, await the people of the State of which we are the founders. . . . . Such are the circumstances and conditions which lead to the conviction that this state, of which to-day we lay the foundation, will, ere many generations have passed away, become the centre of the southern hemisphere—the brightest gem of the Southern Ocean."

In my next I will give a short sketch of the history of Australia, which country, though but a few years old, promises of being one of the grandest countries of the southern hemisphere.

WORKINGMEN.

Before you begin your heavy spring work after a winter of relaxation, your system needs cleansing and strengthening to prevent an attack of Ague, Bilious or Soring Fever, or some other Spring sickness that will unfit you for a season's work. You will save time, much sickness and great expense if you will use one bottle of Hop Bitters in your family this month. Don't wait.—Burlington Hawkeye.

RHEUMATIC DISEASES.

These ailments follow from a torpid liver and costive bowels; the skin, bowels and kidneys failing in their proper work, an acrid poison is formed in the blood, which is the occasion of these acute diseases. Kidney Wort produces healthy action of all secretive organs, and throws off the rheumatic poison.

A Mother's Joy.

A Wife's Gratitude to Him who has Afforded her the Means of once more Enjoying Life.

The following pleasant letter was recently received by Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., and signed "Old Schenectady":

"I procured a bottle of 'Kennedy's Favorite Remedy' and my wife used it with the best results. She has no more headache or pain in the side. Indeed, the medicine has an almost magical effect, and she feels very grateful to you for your kind advice, and especially for the 'Favorite Remedy.' We shall be glad to recommend it to all women who may be suffering from any of the ills peculiar to the sex. It is all you claim for it."

It may be in place to mention, as pertinent to the above letter, that Dr. Kennedy, the proprietor of "Favorite Remedy," located in the city of Schenectady soon after his graduation, and went from there to the war. Some of the most cheering letters he receives are from his old acquaintances in that place, many of whom know from experience what "Favorite Remedy" can do for disease. There all the Doctor's old friends will believe him when he says that "Favorite Remedy" is a specific for Liver and Kidney Complaints, Consumption, Diseases of the Blood and Urinary Organs, and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females. Write to Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y., and state your case, or ask your druggist for "Favorite Remedy," for sale by all druggists.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—In Chancery of New Jersey—Between Maggie A. Adams, complainant, and Florence Kemp, et. al., defendants.—Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

45,000 Policies in Force.

TEN FACTS.

1. A Large and Strong Company.

The New York Life has age and the stability which brings success. It has been in operation over thirty-five years, and at the beginning of 1880 had over 45,000 policies in force, covering over $127,000,000 in insurance. For the security of these policies the Company held nearly thirty nine million dollars, being $134,000 over every $100 of liabilities by the State Standard.

2. A Purely Mutual Company.

The New York Life is one of the few purely mutual life companies in this country, a company owned and managed by the policy holders themselves, in their own interests, with no stockholders to share the profits or interfere in the management, to the prejudice of the insured. It affords insurance at current cost with absolute security.

3. A Liberal and Progressive Company,

The New York Life in 1860 originated and introduced the non-forfeiture system of policies, since adopted, in part or in some form, by every life company. It anticipated the New York State Law on the subject, in time by over nineteen years, and in liberality to the insured by giving more than the law requires.

4. A Rapidly Growing Company.

The last ten years include the six years of depression in that followed the panic of 1873; yet during these ten years the increase in the Company's assets has been nearly three-fold, and the increase in surplus and interest receipts over three-fold. During this time the annual disbursements to policyholders have risen from $2,538,303 to $4,848,490, and have aggregated the inconceivable sum of forty million dollars ($40,071,536). The interest receipts alone have been upward of fifteen millions and have more than paid its death-losses.

5. A Solid and Vigorous Company.

The New York Life has held its business, in spite of the "hard times," better than any other prominent company. The falling off among these from the highest point reached since the panic of 1873, has been nearly twenty per cent, on an average, both of income and insurance in force; while in the New York Life the falling off has been only about two per cent. of income and less than one-half of one per cent. of insurance in force.

6. A Wide-Awake Company.

The New York Life has issued over 140,000 policies, insuring over $420,000,000. It has received over $85,000,000 in premiums and nearly $20,000,000 in interest and rents. It has paid over $20,000,000 in death-claims, and returned over $10,000,000 to living policyholders. The amount of its present assets, plus its payments to policyholders and their families, exceeds the sum received from them by nearly six million dollars.

7. A Well-Managed Company.

Its management was never more vigorous, skillful, and prudent than at present. Its report for the year ending January 1st, 1880, shows almost unparalleled prosperity—a large increase in assets; a large increase in surplus; a large increase in premium receipts; a large increase in interest receipts; a large increase in policies and insurance, issued and in force; and a decrease in death-losses, resulting from a careful selection of lives and consequent low mortality rate.

8. A Company with A No. 1 Securities.

The securities of the New York Life are of the very highest order, the interest on which is collected when due. The entire amount of its uncollected interest, including the amount accrued or earned but not yet due, upon its investments January 1st, 1880, was but $317,089.11. This was only about eight-tenths of one per cent. of the Company's entire assets, being the lowest ratio of any prominent company and in notable contrast with some. At the date above given its bonds and stocks were worth nearly a million dollars more than cost.

9. A Prudent Company.

In estimating its liabilities the Company employs the severest standard used in this country. Security being the sine qua non in life insurance, the New York Life calculates its reserve fund on the supposition that it will be able to realize in future but four per cent. interest; and thus keeps this fund over four million dollars larger than is required by the law by which its solvency is tested. Hence, no unusual losses, no sudden depression in the prices of securities, no panic, no hard times, nor all of these combined can so reduce its surplus as seriously to embarrass the Company.

10. A Good Company to Insure in.

The policies of the New York Life are notable for their freedom from vexatious restrictions; the customs of the Company with respect to payment of premiums, etc., are plainly stated, and efforts are made to encourage and to enable every honest policyholder to keep up his policy; in the settlement of claims by death the greatest liberality consistent with justice is ever shown, as the grateful acknowledgements of hundreds of beneficiaries abundantly testify. By its liberal construction of the policy contract in cases that might have been resisted on technical grounds it has gained the reputation of being

The Literary Revolution.

Victories are won every day. In January, 1875, "The Literary Revolution" was inaugurated by the publication of one small, thin volume, at one dollar. At present, the first, published and in active sale, consists of 175 volumes of standard books. It gives employment to about 500 hands, and will have furnished for delivering its completed set ten tons of mail matter per day. To meet the demand for large numbers of months a capacity of 2,000,000 and probably 3,000,000 volumes will be required. The almost wonderful success which the "Revolution" has achieved is, doubtless, to be attributed to its leading principles, which are:

I. Publish only books of real merit.

II. What is worth reading is worth preserving—all books are neatly and strongly bound.

III. Work on the basis of the present cost of making books, which is very much less than it was a few years ago.

IV. Books have commonly been considered luxuries; in a free republic they ought to be considered necessities, and the masses will buy good books by the million if prices are placed within their reach.

Following out these principles, a set of books is now offered, and 100 books make a library of 25,000 pages, a mass of information such as would have cost a few years ago $1,000, and it is now sold for $10, and will be furnished at $5 per month, and the manufacturers as well as more profit to sell the million.

LIBRARY OF UNIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE.

Large Type Edition. A verbatim reprint of the last (1880) London edition of Chambers's Encyclopædia, with numerous additions (about 10,000 topics) by American editors, the whole forming a complete and independent work, and not a mere supplement to any other publication. The work is printed from new stereotype plates, large type, on superior paper, and contains 15 full-page maps printed in colors, and many hundred wood engravings. It is sold by subscription only, and is the cheapest work ever published. Quite a number of our readers are subscribers for it, and express themselves highly pleased.—Press, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Appletons will no doubt more than double their subscription list by the publication of this work. The general reader is to be superior to either of them, for the work is not a reprint, but a new and original work, containing the latest information down to 1881, and is sold at a price which will bring it within the reach of all.—Times, Richmond, Va.

Price, set of 15 volumes, in cloth, $15.00; in half Russia, gilt top, $22.50.

Chambers's Encyclopædia.

As a portion of the Library of Universal Knowledge, we issue Chambers's Encyclopædia separately, without the American additions, complete in 10 volumes, 8vo. In this style it is printed from new stereotype plates, on fine paper, with from very many more engravings than any other edition, and is sold at one-third the cost of the latest London edition. Price, same edition, cloth, $7.50; Extra Cloth, Beveled Edges, Marbled Edges, half Russia, gilt top, $15. In this style it is now completed and being delivered to purchasers.

What is the Verdict?

Anybody can afford to own a cyclopædia now.—Free Press, Elmira, N. Y.

We can only repeat our hearty recommendation of a scheme which places to the hands of the people the best literature of our race.—Traveler, Boston.

The day of dear cyclopædias is over. Chambers is now with us, and the American Book Exchange merits the praise for its enterprise.—Press, Philadelphia, Penn.

How some rich readers have lost a colossal fortune which was at one time in publishers' hands for the years at nominal prices! If so, I admire your taste. But wasn't the editor a fool when he gave it away?—Evening Post, Scranton, Pa.

At these rates any man may, and every man should, have a library.—The Alliance, Chicago, Ill.

In doing wonders in book-making. A few dollars will purchase a good library. A large number of them to have books for the masses.—Herald, Chicago, Ill.

It is a matter of wonder how such books, in first binding with good paper and great type, can be offered at such a price.—The Standard, Chicago, Ill.

It is a mystery which we will not attempt to explain how the American Book Exchange can afford to publish such a complete work at such a low price. Many publishers may be inclined to sneer at the idea that a reliable house can afford to publish a book at one-tenth the cost at which it is offered elsewhere, cannot change their methods.—Times-Journal, Lawrenceburg, Ky.

We have before given generous notices of this work, because we believe we are doing a favor to our readers in so doing.—Herald, Union, Ohio.

It is entirely obliterates the system offered by many who really want a good encyclopædia, but are unable to pay the large subscription prices of the universal editions. Quite a number of our readers are subscribers for it, and express themselves highly pleased.—Press, Cincinnati, Ohio.

We know of no publication of recent date that deserves so large a share of public encouragement as the.—The American Book Exchange, Boston.

We have a copy of this work before us, and have examined it carefully. It is a wonderful work.—Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

They are well printed and bound. Their form is vastly more convenient than the usual cyclopædia volume or pamphlet, and their price is cheap beyond all precedent in the history of publishing.—Herald, Chicago, Ill.

It has been the great misfortune of the people that the American Book Exchange was not started in publishing books for the masses years ago. Had it been, millions of dollars would have been saved to the people, and the cause of education would have been assisted, and especially in the scientific, biographical, and historical departments, which are brought up to the very latest date.—Republican, Cincinnati, Ohio.

It has given her great pleasure to notice from time to time the noble enterprise throughout Virginia. Your prices will seem to educators of the present day almost fabulous.—Times, Richmond, Va.
